Sizzler's gets burned by Yankee namesake

by Andy Holloway

Sizzler's Chicken and Ribs is being forced to change its name because of pressure from an American restaurant chain that bears the same name.

Owners of the Minden area restaurant which opened in January after operating in Bobcaygeon for several years have been threatened with court action by American firm Sizzler's International if they do not cease using the name.

The U.S. firm, a chain of worldwide restaurants based in Los Angeles, also wants 10 per cent of any profits the local Sizzlers has made since it opened.

"It's another case of a big American company coming in to screw Canadians," says co-owner Bruce Hiscock.

The name problem arose after Sizzler's International decided to expand into Ontario. Although Hiscock had registered the name with the Ontario government, this registration was later overridden by a federal patent.

When Hiscock registered the name with the province a search uncovered only a Sizzler's restaurant in British Columbia. However, when the American firm expanded, it took out a federal patent which overrides any provincial registration.

Grades 3 to 5 catch a break

by Russ Duhaime

An eleventh-hour deal with Minden has made a bad situation bearable for the students and staff of Archie Stouffer Elementary School.

The school board reached an agreement Wednesday to rent the Minden Community Centre to house grades 3, 4 and 5 until the school is ready to be occupied, some time in October.

The agreement keeps the majority of students in Minden and eliminates what could have been a busing nightmare. It also eases parents' concerns about the potential problems of young students sharing accommodations with their older counterparts at the high school.

The opening of Minden's elementary school has been postponed by about a month because of delays in construction of the addition. The board moved fast to develop an alternate plan, which had three grades located in the Haliburton high school gym; three grades at the Haliburton elementary school gym; two grades at the ASES annex, and one grade in church basements.

Warm Welcome

Rotary Exchange student Signe Mandrup Christophersen has enjoyed the warm weather and the warm welcome she's received since arriving in Town on August 10. The 17-year-old girl from Odense, Denmark, is looking forward to an active year in the community. (Please see page 7 for story).

Shed no tiers, Amalgamation dies quiet death

by Russ Duhaime

The concept of a streamlined county government has fizzled and died along with the enthusiasm for the management review that spawned this idea.

The notion of establishing a one-tier government died a silent death behind the closed doors of a county council committee meeting. The only dissenting vote came from Lutterworth Reeve Cam Ecclestone, who still believes there's enough merit for further consideration.

The now defunct proposal was mentioned in passing at last Wednesday's county council meeting near Harcourt.

Although it was never openly discussed by council, one-tier government for this county was addressed on several occasions at special meetings surrounding Wace and Associates organizational review of the county.

The Wace report recommends the amalgamation of the county's 10 municipalities into one government body. It says

Co-operation is preferred to amalgamation as councillors bury the proposal to save millions in municipal taxes taxpayers could save $1.5 million each year while also improving the level of services.

Warden Chris Hodgson delivered the news of this concept's death in his opening remarks at last week's meeting in the former Martin Lumber headquarters near Harcourt. He said there is just no consensus among county councillors for any sort of amalgamation of municipalities in this county.

Instead, the county is proposing to salvage some gains from the $40,000 Wace report by encouraging the 10 municipalities to investigate the potential for cost savings through co-operative ventures.

Glamorgan's reeve expressed disappointment in the downfall of one-tier government. "One tier was an absolute wash," said Bev MacDuff. She said she believes it could work, but no one else seems to agree. "It's our nature to protect our own domain."

County residents will face double-digit tax increases unless something is soon done to deal with the problems at hand, said MacDuff.

Stanhope Deputy Reeve Eleanor Harrison said she is confident that savings can be found if municipalities work together. She said councillors must draw from the expertise of their municipal staffs in order to find ways of amalgamating services.

In spite of the sound rejection of amalgamation, council agreed to cover the warden's expenses to attend an AMO (Association of Municipalities of Ontario) convention in Hamilton, so he can gather more information about one-tier government.

Stormy times: Streets of Minden were littered with debris and tree branches moments after a severe rainstorm slammed into the area Friday morning. Many of the trees that line North Water Street (above) were damaged in the storm.

Local restaurant branded by US firm

A business name does not have to be registered provincially, but Hiscock says it is done to protect the name. This is "a joke", he said, seeing as how it can be overridden. Registering provincially costs $500 with a $50 search for each name (Hiscock tried four names before Sizzlers was approved) chosen. Taking out a federal patent costs about $800.

In June Hiscock received a letter from the Los Angeles firm stating its case against his restaurant. Hiscock says he phoned the firm and advised that an American firm had no authority over a Canadian one. Soon afterwards Hiscock received a letter from the B.C. Sizzlers' lawyer outlining the same case.

Despite the overwhelming odds Hiscock says he and his brother are doing everything they can without spending a lot of money. Hiscock says he has contacted MPP Dennis Drainville's office and was told to check with the federal government where he says he keeps hitting road blocks. Still, the fight goes on.

"We weren't going to make it easy for them, we were going to make it as difficult as possible until we didn't have to pay," says Hiscock.

Taking this to the court would be an expensive venture, he said. Hiscock would have to hire a lawyer specializing in commercial affairs, and even then the chances of winning are slim.

Not only will the name have to be changed, but business cards, place mats and signs - anything with the name Sizzler's on it - will also have to be removed.

Pictures, results of the County Fair will be in the next issue of The Times.

Kinmount supports co-op housing

Residents' response to housing survey called excellent

by Jerry Grozelle

The Kinmount Community Non-Profit Housing Corporation circulated a survey to assess the need for affordable housing for both seniors and families in the Kinmount area.

Response to the survey was excellent and a proposal was submitted to the Ministry of Housing requesting funding for a local project. The proposal had to be in the ministry's hands by August 13 and it was sent by courier the day before. The ministry has since confirmed that the proposal has been received on time.

The corporation enlisted the help of consultant Alan Revill to assist in the preparation of the survey and presentation of the proposal for affordable housing in Kinmount.

More than 100 responses were received and the number was screened to 82 before the proposal was drafted. The ratio between seniors and families was about 50/50.

A Jobs Ontario Program will allow for 5,000 affordable housing units to be built across Ontario in the "first wave." By making the August 13 deadline, the local group's application will be considered for that first wave.

With the way the economy is moving and the uncertainty that shrouds all government programs these days, the members of the Kinmount area group breathed a collective sigh of relief when word was obtained that their proposition was received on time.

"We feel optimistic about it," said Corporation chairperson Flo Jopling. "We had a good response to the questionnaires. I would like to thank all the people who supported this program. Without them, we couldn't get any further."

People from all over the area around Kinmount responded to the questionnaire, clearly identifying a need for affordable housing in the area.

"I think we're due for it, that's for sure," Jopling said. "We've got to keep our fingers crossed."

Jopling also had some praise for the consultant.

"I'm really pleased with Alan (Revill). He did a terrific job," Jopling said. "I don't think we could have asked for anybody better to put this proposal together because it was such a complex proposal."

Children's centre spared

Five Counties Children's Centre has been spared from social contract service cuts by assistance from the centre's Foundation.

Services to the centre will be maintained until March 31, 1994. The social contract cutbacks in funding would have required that the full-time staff take 12 days off between now and March 31.

The Centre's Foundation have committed to providing up to $150,000 this year to avoid the cutbacks in services to children and families this year. The foundation has also indicated that it would consider additional funding to cover the financial shortfall for the next two years as well.

Minden MNR broken into again

Two break-ins overnight on August 11 netted thieves cigarettes and cash according to Minden OPP.

The Minden offices of the Ministry of Natural Resources were broken into and cash and a VCR colour monitor was stolen.

Also that night, Duchene Shell in West Guilford was broken into. During the break-in thieves got away with 31 packages of cigarettes and 30 bags of Hostess potato chips.

Police say the two thefts do not appear to be related.

Board to rent Minden centre

Part of that plan was scrapped last Wednesday when Minden council agreed to rent out the community centre for $500 a week. This eliminates the need to locate any of the students at the high school gym and cuts the estimated cost of busing in half.

ASES principal Peter Forgrave detailed the new arrangements to about 75 Minden area residents during meeting Wednesday night at the community centre. He outlined the steps the board has taken since it learned of the construction delay on August 5. He also told about the options that had been considered and why they were rejected.

The concept of housing students at the Minden Community Centre had previously been considered by the board, but the option was rejected because of the $37,500 rental cost. Apparently, Minden Council has reconsidered this price and is now willing to rent the facility for about a tenth of the cost.

The municipality will continue to honour its other rental agreements, which will mean that everything will have to be pushed aside whenever there's a bingo or dance scheduled. For this reason, students are encouraged to bring only the necessities when they come to school.

Construction at the school is run-

Grade 3, 4 and 5 will have their classes in the Minden Community Centre at a cost of $500 per week.

ning about a month behind schedule, chiefly because they had to remove far more asbestos insulation than they had anticipated.

Forgrave told parents the board had considered delaying the start of school, but that was rejected because of the length of the delay. One month is too much time to try to make up, he said. It would also be disruptive to parents who plan their own schedules around the school calendar, he said.

The board also considered split shifts at Haliburton's J.D. Hodgson school, but the board dumped that idea, also because of the disruption it would create. Some students would have to catch buses as early as 6 a.m. while others would get off the buses late in the evening.

The new plan causes the least disruption, particularly in terms of busing. Forgrave said all students will board their regular buses, which will deliver them to the community centre. From here, the kindergarten and grade 1 students will be shuttled over to the annex. Grade 2 students will catch a bus to the Catholic and United churches. Students in grades 6, 7 and 8 will be bussed to Haliburton.

None of the options is ideal, Forgrave said. "It's a challenging situation to say the least," he said. "It's far from ideal." However, this latest arrangement is making the best of a bad situation.

And although Forgrave admits it will be a challenge to teach under these conditions, he is optimistic that staff will take advantage of the facilities to create a unique learning experience. Forgrave said teachers will be taking full advantage of the unique features of the facilities they are using. "If there's something special in an area, they'll take full advantage of it while they're there."

And while parents may be unhappy about the arrangements, Forgrave said students will probably see it as an intriguing adventure.

For the most part, the information presented at Wednesday's meeting was well received by parents. There were plenty of questions — most dealing with specifics of how this will function — but virtually no complaints.

The board, in fact, was praised for its efforts by a cottager who serves as a trustee on the Victoria County Board of Education. Bonny Jull said the board is fortunate to have a principal of Forgrave's calibre to help work through the difficulties.

Housing project on to next step

Even with the first major hurdle out of the way, the Kinmount group may not hear any news about its application until as late as December.

If the Ministry of Housing approves the Kinmount proposal the group has narrowed down its choice of locations to three potential sites. But if approval is granted the ideal site will have to be given the blessing of the Ministry of Environment, Ministry of Health and other government bodies before any construction can begin.

"We're getting there, step by step," Jopling said. "I hope it works out for us."

Laxton municipal office opens

by Jerry Grozelle

The official opening of the Laxton, Digby and Longford Township office enjoyed a better than expected turnout with more than 100 people attending. It was standing room only in the newly renovated council chambers as visiting dignitaries offered their congratulations to LDL council on transforming the old school into a valuable new facility.

Along with the municipal office and council chambers, the building will also be home to a bigger and more modern library facility some time in the near future.

All members of LDL council, as well as office staff, were on hand to greet visitors and assist in guided tours of the facility.

Victoria-Haliburton MP Bill Scott attended to present a Canadian Flag and a picture of the Queen to council. MPP Dennis Drainville sent an Ontario Flag along with his regrets that he couldn't be present for the ceremonies.

Two of the former reeves, Raymond Gostlin and Ingram Wessell attended the ceremonies, along with School Board Trustee Dianne Austin, Somerville reeve John Huke, Dalton reeve Harold Bruce, Fenelon Township reeve Dave Murray, Bexley deputy-reeve Laurie Barkwell and Bexley councillor Marg Michel. Victoria County Warden and Ops reeve Sharon McCrae was also present.

"I think it went quite well," said LDL reeve Doug Horton. "I heard quite a few positive comments about what we've done with the building. There's a lot of sentiment attached to the old school. A lot of people are happy that it belongs to the people again."

Laxton, Digby and Longford's new logo was also unveiled and logo designer John Mykytuk was introduced. Mykytuk's design was chosen from 26 submissions.

Victoria townships have new logo

by Jerry Grozelle

Judges of the Laxton, Digby and Longford Townships logo contest had a tough job, with 26 entries to choose from.

Members of council, with the exception of Lynn Peel, whose husband entered the contest, and the municipality's office staff were the judges.

Each of the judges chose three or four of their favourites from all the entries, assigning points in order of preference. The field was narrowed down to two finalists and it was John Mykytuk of Head Lake whose design was finally selected.

Mykytuk was thrilled to have his logo chosen. "It's the first time I've ever entered anything like this," he said.

Mykytuk received a copy of Vernon LeCraw's book 'The Land Between', a history of the townships. He was also presented with a T-shirt emblazoned with the new municipal logo.

The 26 entries were posted on a bulletin board outside the council chambers during the open house ceremonies at the newly renovated municipal office.

County ponders move east

by Russ Duhaime

If not for finances, Minden would be within a hair's breadth of losing the county office to Dysart et al.

County councillors were duly impressed with the former Martin Lumber office near Harcourt and some are prodding fellow councillors to consider the purchase of this building.

County councillors had the opportunity to tour the impressive office building prior to a meeting there last Wednesday. They also heard an impassioned plea from Cardiff Township Clerk Roger Hogan, who said the relocation of this government office would spark new life into the area's economy.

Only Minden's reeve opposed the move on grounds other than finances. While he agreed the move would help the county's eastern townships, he said Minden would pay the price for those gains.

"It may create a new community here," reeve Bern Berry concurred, "but it will leave an old community back there. This is a lovely building, but Minden's a lovely town and I'd like to see it remain so."

County council has been trying to move its headquarters out of the historic building in Minden village for several years now. At one point, council approved the purchase of property near Allsaw and began planning for a new building there. This initiative fell flat when councillors later realized the costs and pitfalls associated with the plan.

The county has also paid polite attention to an offer from Minden to utilize the fair grounds as a site if a new building is deemed necessary.

The notion of moving the offices to Harcourt came largely from Snowdon Township Reeve George Simmons, who sees this as an opportunity to buy an existing building at a bargain price. The concept gained momentum when it was offered as an option in the county's recent organization review.

Simmons took the opportunity again Wednesday to urge his fellow councillors to consider this purchase. He also wants the board of education to move its administration into the Harcourt office.

Simmons promptly dismissed Berry's concerns about the impact this might have on Minden. "In the next two to three years there will be lots of new buildings in Minden," he said. However, he did not elaborate on what will create this progress or who will fill these buildings.

Simmons also dismissed the historical significance of Minden as the county seat.

"The county town aspect is for the past," he said. "Services should be distributed throughout the county. We have to draw together."

Bicroft Reeve Hans Stevens agrees with Simmons' view in terms of historical significance. "Having a county town may have been valid 100 years ago ... but it's not valid today," he said.

Wednesday's public meeting was scheduled to begin at 1 p.m. following a morning of committee meetings. Councillors, however, didn't break for lunch until noon and some weren't back until almost 2 p.m.

Even with the six air conditioners churning away in the yard behind the Harcourt office, the temperature in the board room escalated as area residents filed into the main-floor board. Almost 40 people turned out to the meeting to see how council would respond to this proposal, and the chatter in the room indicated they were unhappy with the way it has been dealt with thus far.

Cardiff's clerk said the eastern townships are feeling the impact of a stagnant economy. The area's founding industries — lumbering and mining — have dried up the area is still feeling the effects of the closure of the Martin Lumber mill. "They are in bad need of economic recovery," said Hogan. He asked council to give serious consideration to utilizing this modern office facility.

Moving the county's administration into the Harcourt office would bring new development into the area, he said. Historically, new homes, commerce and related development have cropped up around county headquarters, he said.

The Harcourt office was opened in May of 1986, when Martin Lumber was still a thriving business. Unfortunately, it saw little use as the business soon began to crumble and assets were sold off piece by piece. Since 1990, the three-storey office building on Elephant Lake Road has sat vacant on its 41-acre lot.

Although it cost more than $2 million to build, the office now carries a price tag of $1.45 million and it has been suggested that it may go for as little as $1 million.

The building, designed to accommodate 100 employees, is large enough to house the county's administrative staff, and still have room for the board of education to move in. It has five board rooms, a large cafeteria, showers and lockers, handicap access, an observation elevator and an indoor garden.

The proposal to move out of the Minden offices stems from a space shortage for the growing county staff. County council was forced out of its council chambers at the start of the year to accommodate a swelling Social Services department. Council meetings have since been held in the Minden Community Centre.

The county's organizational review listed six possibilities for dealing with the space shortage. The least expensive is to maintain the status quo, at least until the province decides whether it will take over Social Services.

Other options include renovating and expanding the existing county office ($235,000 to $285,000); leasing office space for Social Services ($30,000 per year); purchase and renovate the house adjacent to the present office ($150,000 to $175,000), or build new ($2.6 million to $3.1 million).

The proposal to purchase the Harcourt office is based on the assumption that the county can sell its existing offices for $400,000. It also assumes the county can sell 11 other properties for a combined price of $450,000.

Exchange student impressed with warmth of the community

by Russ Duhaime

Signe Mandrup Christophersen didn't quite know what to expect when she arrived in Minden last week.

The 17-year-old Rotary exchange student arrived in town August 10 and was pleasantly surprised to find it is just the way it was described to her. She was told the town would be small and small it is.

This tiny tourist community is a far cry from Signe's home town of Odense, Denmark. However, that's what the Rotary Exchange program is all about — spending time in a community that's different from your own and learning about another culture by experiencing life in that community.

She smiles shyly as she describes her first impression of the town where she will be living for the next year. She chooses her words carefully, so as not to leave the wrong impression.

"I'm surprised how small it is," she says with a very slight accent, "but it's magnificent. The people are so warm and friendly. And there's so much here; two banks and a newspaper and everything you need.

Signe will be living with Tara and Rob Low for the next three months. After that she will spend time with Gord and Donna Monk, Bill and Sybil Roodenburg and Charlie and Ethel Muli.

Since she's only been here a short while, Signe hasn't had an opportunity to see much of the area. Still, she is impressed with what she has seen and is particularly pleased with the warm reception she is receiving from the community.

"I feel very comfortable about being here," she says. "It's hard to describe."

Signe says she is very pleased to be here and is looking forward to the year ahead. She's anxious about the prospect of beginning school, participating in sports, making friends and travelling throughout Ontario and other parts of Canada.

Signe's home town is best known as the birth place of Hans Christian Andersen. Odense, however, is much more than that. It's a thriving city in the centre of Denmark. With a population of 175,000, it's the third largest city in her country.

Still, there are some similarities. Denmark has plenty of lakes and rivers and it enjoys four distinct seasons. The climate, however, is not as extreme as it is here, and Signe is looking forward to the winter to see some lasting snow and try her hand at skiing.

Signe says she is not homesick, but she is a bit apprehensive about starting school and meeting people her own age. "I'm not at all nervous about being here, but on the first school day I will be."

Although she is expected to attend classes, the vast differences in the school systems make it unlikely that she will receive credit for her work here. In Denmark, students graduate from primary school when they are 15, at which time they select an area of specialization for further education. Signe chose business, and last year she completed her first year in business college.

Among the places she would like to visit during her time in Canada are Niagara Falls, Toronto and British Columbia. She says she is optimistic that she will have the opportunity to see all these places and many more.

OPP office to close 3 days

Anyone trying to reach the Minden OPP detachment will have to call the Peterborough number for the next two Fridays.

As part of the province's social contract, OPP detachments will be without administrative staff for at least three days. For the next two Fridays, the Minden office will function as it does on weekends. Police can be reached by dialing 1-800-461-6488.

Shifty politics

The decline of the Martin Lumber empire is unfortunate.

The emptiness of the modern office near Harcourt is unfortunate.

The economic realities facing this county's eastern townships are unfortunate.

However, those who see a relocation of the county seat as the area's saviour are ignoring the plain fact that their gain is Minden's loss. We're not talking about bringing a new service to the area but of transplanting it from one municipality to another. If the eastern townships are to gain from this shift, it follows that Minden must lose.

There's no arguing that the Harcourt office is an attractive facility. Its tasteful decorations complement its efficient design. The fact that it's still empty, however, demonstrates that the county's present office in Minden will sit empty for a long time if county council does pull the plug.

The notion of moving the the county staff over to Harcourt was initiated by Snowdon Township Reeve George Simmons, who, apparently, is clairvoyant. He says Minden shouldn't worry about the impact of this loss. There will be lots of new buildings springing up the the village, he predicts.

Well, we're not so easily convinced. Businesses in Minden deserve credit for their tenacity in surviving some very rough times. However, surviving is all most are doing. We do not see a building boom on the horizon.

Instead of exchanging one vacant office for another, the county should be actively promoting the Harcourt office to outside interests. The vacant Martin Lumber office is not a liability, but an opportunity for Haliburton County. Our economic development officer should have an easier time selling the Harcourt office than the Minden office.

In spite of what we're told, a move to Harcourt is not in the best interests of the county. It's merely a shift of change from one pocket to another.

The way we were: The train may not run through Haliburton County any more, but it was once a vital part of the economy and everyday life. The L.B. & O used to stop at Howland Junction (above).

Thanks for support

Editor:

On behalf of the Nystedt, Buerkle and McPhee families, I would like to thank the people of Minden for all of their support over the loss of OPP Constable Eric Nystedt.

During the last month the people of Minden have sent many heart-felt letters with their fond memories of Eric and with words of encouragement. We truly appreciate your kind words.

To the members of the Minden OPP we can not express just how we feel; we are grateful that Eric was among such caring and compassionate people.

You took him in as a young recruit and taught him well. Eric loved his job, but more importantly he loved working with all of you.

Eric touched the lives of many, and this will not be forgotten. To the people of Minden, you have touched our family in a very special way and this too will not be forgotten.

Joanne McPhee
(girlfriend of the late Constable Eric Nystedt)

Federal party mix up

Editor:

Over the past many years, I have been reading your paper during my summer vacation at Irondale. I have enjoyed the many years that William Scott, Progressive Conservative, was our Member of Parliament.

As published in the August 19 paper, I was astounded to read your report on the Rotary Mile at Haliburton. This report identified Lorne Chester, candidate for the Progressive Conservative party, as the Liberal candidate. I am confident that Liberal Candidate John O'Reilly would be horrified to read this report, not to mention how Lorne Chester would feel. Fortunately, since Barry Devolin is a local, he received proper credit for his efforts.

Over my working career, I have reported on many activities for radio and newspapers and am aware of the ongoing concern for accuracy and clarity. As deadlines fast come and go, it is easy to slip up on a few issues. However, to the many Liberals and Conservatives in the riding I am confident they would appreciate your continued accurate reporting which we have come to enjoy.

Shimmering threads

Workplaces are the new killing fields

Work fascinates me, I can sit and look at it for hours.

I believe the laconic old wordsmith Anon is responsible for the above-quoted philosophy. I wish I'd said it first. It echoes my sentiments to a 'T'. Or perhaps that should read 'Z'.

As in zzzzzzzzzzzzzzzzzzz.

Your obedient correspondent here, will never be confused with that hyperkinetic breed of human you see zooming down the highway towards the Towers of Mammon these days, death-grip on the steering wheel, cellular phone tucked under the chin, chewing Roloids.

I am not a workaholic - a fact to which a grim succession teachers, bosses, colleagues and soul mates would be only too happy to testify.

I not only believe in taking to smell the roses, I think you have to set a few hours aside to watch the river flow, the sun go down and the world go by. I also subscribe to afternoon naps, rocking chairs, hammocks, carpet slippers, banjo strumming, bonfires on the beach and playing hookey whenever feasible.

Which means I probably would have had a helluva time if I'd been born in Japan.

The Japanese aren't work-oriented - they're work-neurotic. A survey conducted by a Tokyo life insurance company last year revealed that almost 50 per cent of Japan's work force believes their

by Arthur Black jobs are going to kill them.

And they might be right. The Japanese salaried employee works a schedule that would knock Jean Claude Parrot on his well-upholstered keister. A majority of the 15-year veteran executives surveyed said they worked 14 hour a day, six days a week. They averaged less than 10 days off a year each. Their greatest wish? Nearly 90 per cent confessed they "just wanted to sleep more."

Work can kill you in Japan alright. In fact, they even have a word of it - karoshi. It means sudden death from overwork. It knocks off about 200 Japanese white collars a year. It's become so acute that some Japanese firms are ordering their staff to take time off. Mazda Motors even bankrolled one of its executives and his wife to take time off to enter an international ballroom competition. The executive complied, but he was edgy about being away from his desk. "Two weeks was a long time," he said.

Japan even has the National Recreation Association. It's a government body that trains "leisure counsellors" who in turn teach stressed-out workers how to relax and enjoy themselves.

Not that you have to emigrate to Tokyo or Osaka to qualify as a terminal workaholic. Consider the case of Wendell Parrish.

If there was ever a flesh-and-blood representation of a textbook workaholic, it was Wendell. He didn't smoke. He didn't drink. He didn't chase women or waste time or money on foolishness like dancing, fishing or horse racing. Wendell worked. He toiled for 28 years as a bookkeeper in a Portland, Oregon firm.

For all that time Wendell never left the state of Oregon - as far as anyone knows, he never even went beyond the city limits.

But that was OK, because Wendell had a plan. He was going to travel around the world. Japan, Australia, Europe, Argentina - all the places Wendell had spent his weekends and evenings reading about down at the local library. He would visit the Russian Steppes, the Great Wall of China, the Pyramids, Stonehenge.

It was no pipe dream. Wendell Parrish even taught himself French and German. He saved every penny he could.

But mostly what Wendell hoarded was time. Vacation time. In 28 years Wendell never took any time off and when he hit retirement he had an incredible 78 weeks of vacation owing to him.

Moral of the story? Search me. And don't ask Wendell Parrish. You can't. While packing to head off for the airport, Wendell died of a massive heart attack.

Marriage is near the end of the line

*Love is just a moment of giving
And marriage is when we admit our parents were right*

Marriage, Billy Bragg

The mere mention of that famed institution makes my blood run reptile-cold, my eyelids to sweat and a slight woozy feeling passes through to the very core of my being.

Granted, the same effects are noted when I glance through magazines with Guess ads in them, but it is definitely different in orientation and mood.

The mid-20s are fraught with pitfalls and pratfalls. Leaving the family nest is easy, but where it leads - the expectation of maturity and kids - is difficult. Who wants to get old? Jack Benny decided to remain 39 for many years rather than face the fact that he was 40 and more than halfway through life.

Marriage. Take a close look at the word - to marry is to age. It can't be a coincidence the two words are together. In days gone by the marrying age was much lower than it is now. Women would marry before they were 20-years-old and in many cases as soon as they turned 16 or younger. The fear of growing old and becoming a spinster was uppermost in mind, but it was also due to economics. Not coincidentally, women died much younger as well and before they had a chance to enjoy life to the fullest. Going into labour was like playing Russian roulette.

As the 20th century grew older the marrying age also became older. Men don't get married, on average, until they are around 26 years of age and the average woman still gets married around 23. The dreaded middle 20s, that age from 23 to 27 where men and

by Andy Holloway

women pair up, supposedly for life, but more likely just a few years. Those on the outer rim of that era, who have managed not to be ensnared, look back at friends and family getting hitched and sadly shake their heads with a knowing bewilderment.

In the past few months I have seen three pairs of long-time friends pair up. I try to feel happy for them, but why can't they leave well enough alone. They were already common-in-law (or living in sin if you will), some had houses and pets, most were happy with what they had.

I've never been to a wedding (or a funeral for that matter although why I equate those two things is a mystery), but what's the point of it, I ask myself. These couples are already married in the eyes of most and the law.

So the question remains, why not live the 20s to the fullest. After marriage comes responsibilities and there's no way you can backpack your way through the world without a care anymore. You can't leave, you're trapped - a whole way of life has been eliminated.

After 30 when things begin to slow down marriage sounds fine, but why in the supposed midst of all the fun. Kids wait all their lives to have fun as adults and then throw it away. In one engagement case I know I'm sure the guy doesn't even have to shave yet.

Is there something that makes people want to throw it all away for a mere piece of legal paper. After all, if you're so insecure in a relationship that you need this paper guarantee shouldn't that tell you something?

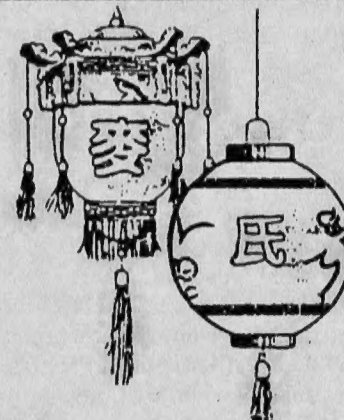

Besides who wants to admit their parents were right on anything.

Wild white water ride

by Andy Holloway

The World Cup for slalom canoists and kayakers made a return to Minden in fine style last weekend thrilling enthusiastic crowds during its three day stay.

The fourth stop on the World Cup circuit, the Gull River proved to be a challenging foe for the 120 athletes representing 16 countries. The river's volume was about 25.5 cubic metres per second down the 600 metre course. The normal flow of the Gull River, according to Trent-Severn Waterways, is about 18.7 cubic metres per second for this time of year so it was a fast ride.

It was also a good weekend for Canadians as many of the team's members had good qualifying runs on Saturday to make the finals on Sunday (final results were not available at press time and will be published next week).

Of the 120 total racers, only 15 in each of the four categories - men's kayak, women's kayak, one-person canoe and two-person canoe - make the finals. Six Canadians made the grade including the two man team of Francois LeTourneau and Benoit Gauthier. Also having successful qualifying rounds were canoists Dan Norman and Vince Osborne, and kayakers Sheryl Boyle and David Ford. Both kayakers are ranked in the top 15 internationally.

All of the finalists get points in the World Cup ranking system ranging from 25 points for finishing first to one point for placing 15th.

The Minden race is the fourth stop on the circuit this year with the previous events happening in Seo de Urgel, Spain, Augsberg, Germany and Lofer, Austria. The final race of the season will happen in Ducktown, Tennessee.

During the practice round on Friday many of the competitors struggled with the placement of the gates and the speed of the Gull River. Kirsten Brown-Fleshman (left) goes sideways through one of the gates. She did not make the final cut of 15 during the qualifying round on Saturday. Jean Michel Raginer (above) didn't make the cut either, despite making a sharp turn into this gate. Lynn Simpson of Great Britain is the kayaker pictured on page 1 and she did make the final on Sunday.

Haliburton defaults game

Haliburton Westside Jug City slipped a notch in the standings when they defaulted a game to the Midland Strikers.

The game was to be played August 15 in Midland, but Haliburton had to forfeit the game.

The loss, coupled by a 5-0 win by the Parry Sound Strikers over the Bond Head Raiders, moved Haliburton into ninth place with just 12 points to show for their 18 games. Midland moved to within four points despite having just two wins.

The Collingwood Lakers are still in first place winning their only game 1-0 over the Bracebridge Centennials. Huntsville remains in second place despite having their game with the Midland North Stars postponed.

Standings are on page 15.

Burton band rocks Norland

entertain capacity crowd

by Jerry Grozelle

A capacity crowd filled the Norland Community Centre on August 14 to see the Keith Burton Show.

Rock, country and middle-of-the-road music fans were treated by the presence of a variety of performers. The Supremes, Linda Ronstadt, Willie Nelson, Tina Turner, Elvis Presley, Sonny and Cher, Madonna, Michael Jackson and a host of others took to the stage to supply their own brand of entertainment.

Well, not really. But members of the Burton Band, cleverly disguised as some of the most famous performers in the music industry past and present, gave the audience its money's worth.

The four-hour show was a fast-paced party with the three singers making dozens of costume changes throughout the evening.

The event was sponsored by the Laxton, Digby and Longford Recreation Committee. The final tally isn't in yet but Could it really be Dolly Parton singing her, um, heart out at the Norland Community Centre? Nah, it's just one of the Keith Burton show impersonators.

Fay Brown, deputy clerk-treasurer of the municipality estimated that between $1,500 and $1,600 will be added to the Recreation budget when all the bills are paid.

Proceeds will be used by the recreation board for the operation and maintenance of the recreation centre as well as for other recreational activities within the municipality.

Haliburton resort's sale completed 3 months later

The sale of the PineStone is finally complete, three months after the initial agreement was announced.

Ownership of the resort and conference centre is now made up of four local people and one from the Orient. The management of the resort is being implemented through Destination Management. The sale was formally agreed to on August 12, but details were not released until late last Friday.

Acting spokesperson Anne Larcade said "it is very satisfying to realize that the future of PineStone can now be developed."

Changes are occurring at PineStone which has never been able to turn a profit. The Golden Slipper Lounge is being renovated as is the golf course, a boutique and an art gallery may be added and development of a winter program is being established to keep the centre open through the winter months.

Over the past three months management of the resort has been difficult said director of business and corporate affairs for the resort Bill Dewey. "Clearly, there is a great deal of potential that can be realized through proper management and defined and progressive marketing strategies."

The signing took place at the office of Fraser and Beatty representing the Bank of Montreal, which was owed $6.5 million when it took control earlier this year, and took six hours to complete.

The PineStone employs about 100 people and has laid most of them off while it closed for the winter in some years although it remained open last winter. In May the resort was tentatively bought by Destination Management after it was placed in receivership by One-2-One Corporation in May, 1992.

Coming Up

The 122nd annual Kinmount Fair is on Labour Day Weekend (September 3 to 5) and provides a fitting end to the great summer of 1993.

Above: The team from Dysart puts out the fire (actually balloons). Dysart won the overall competition, the first of its kind in this county, but finished fourth in this event.

Right: Two firefighting teams square off in another event - a game of ball. The object of this game being to spray the ball into the other team's territory, sort of like tug of war, but in the air.

Firefighting fun

The first Haliburton County Mutual Aid Firefighter Games gave local firefighters a chance to do more than respond to emergency calls.

The games held in Wilberforce on August 15 proved to be fun for all the firefighting teams who came from Bicroft, Dysart, Glamorgan, Minden, Monmouth and a women's team as well as the spectators, many of whom were soaked by day's end - a blessing in itself as the day was hot and steamy.

The five township teams competed against each other in several different events designed to test their skills as firefighters and a tug-of-war. There were several versions of a ladder race, an obstacle course and a ball-game where the two teams tried to push a ball into the other's side using water.

Dysart was the ultimate winner, but Bicroft proved in one race that they were the fastest in putting out a simulated fire (knocking over two balloons placed on the field). The Bicroft team completed the course in 41 seconds compared to Dysart's 67 seconds. Minden was in between, finishing in 59 seconds.

Admission to the event was free, but donations were sought to fund a fire prevention program at local schools.

Crime of the week

Thieves sought in cottage break-in

A cottage break-in on Canning Lake on March 3 netted thieves thousands of dollars in property. Stolen during the break-in was a Sears stereo, Phillips portable stereo, 12 gauge shot gun, Mossburg 22 bolt action rifle, an emerald ring, $1,000 in Canadian and American coins and small denominations of foreign currency (Mexican, Belgian and Bank of America).

If you have any information about this or any other crime, call Lindsay Crimestoppers at 1-800-563-TIPS (8477). You will never be asked to reveal your identity or to testify in court. If your information leads to an arrest Lindsay Crimestoppers will pay up to $1,000 in cash.

Putting teeth into noise bylaw

by Andy Holloway

A new noise bylaw for Dysart et al may have the kind of teeth councillors and residents are looking for, but the problem will still be enforcing it.

Eagle Lake resident Nancy Prentice has been complaining about her neighbor's dogs who according to her, bark constantly. Two months ago, when Prentice first brought her complaint to council she produced a tape recording of the dogs barking and whimpering. She also has a notebook documenting the times the dogs are noisy.

The municipality has sent letters to the owners of the pets, but they have had little effect Prentice said. Reacting to her complaints, council was given a tougher bylaw to examine. All the councillors agreed the bylaw appears to be tougher, but like the current bylaw it has not been tested in the courts.

The new bylaw pinpoints specific kinds of noise, including barking and whimpering by pets, which can lead to a charge being laid against the owners. However, that is the sticking point for the municipality - how to lay the charges without increasing supervision time and costs.

"It's fine to say we've got someone on call to enforce the bylaws, but after 5 p.m. what the hell can you do," said Watts alluding to the fact a bylaw officer is on duty between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m. Despite his concerns about enforcement Watts said he supported the idea of toughening up the current bylaw.

Councillor Gerry Walker said the size of the municipality is so wide that one bylaw officer can not cover it all, however dep-uty-reeve

Curry Bishop said there is no way he would allow another officer to be hired to add extra enforcement of the bylaws. Curry added that the cost of taking offenders to court may be too high as well.

Councillor Lloyd Leadbeatler said the great majority of residents will respond positively when told of the new bylaw and the few who don't will have to be taken to court.

"We can't afford to abandon our taxpayers," said Leadbeatler. "It's unfair to let them suffer without us doing something, it behooves us to do something for them," said Leadbeatler.

Watts added that the municipality has to provide services for its taxpayers and "this is one of them."

Councillors are expected to make recommendations on the new bylaw at the September meeting.

Truckin' on

Minden residents place highly in pull; show

Truckers from Minden showed up well against the best from around the area at the sixth annual Kinsmen Truck Pull and Show.

Nearly every category featured one Mindenite in the top three which surely delighted the crowd that came out despite the cloudy and rainy weather on August 15. Midway through the day it began to rain at the Minden Fairgrounds, but it soon gave up and everyone enjoyed the rest of the day.

The following are the results from the Kinsmen truck pull and show with the top three in each category and their hometown. The sponsor of each category is listed after the event's name.

Trent-Severn Waterway report

At 76.1 per cent the Haliburton lakes averaged very close to their levels last year. 1993 levels had been higher than 1992 since late May.

The wetter weather this summer has resulted in some surplus which has been gradually discharged.

Gull River flow, however, has averaged 18.5 cubic metres per second so far this August which is close to the mean of 18.7.

The mean August flow for the Otonabee River is 32.5 cubic metres per second while this year it has averaged 32.3.

Low water conditions appear to be very unlikely for the rest of this summer. Even Lake Simcoe-Couchiching is sunning about eight centimetres higher than usual.

Guide tripper

Snowdon family gets trip of a lifetime

by Linda Brandon

On behalf of Linda, Brian, Russell, Christopher and Tiffany Snodden a very big thank you is being extended to the Peterborough CHANGES (Children and Adults for Normalization, Growth, Equality and Socialization) organization.

As a result of a membership draw January 25, 1993 the entire Snodden family was able to attend the International Down Syndrome Conference held at Walt Disney World in Orlando, Florida between August

The Snodden family of Snowdon was able to visit Disney World and the Down Syndrome Conference early in August thanks to CHANGES. Russell Brian Snodden has Down Syndrome.

11 and 14. It was the trip of a lifetime for the Snodden's eldest son, Russell Brian, who has Down Syndrome. Russell is 13-years-old and will be in a modified grade seven program at Archie Stouffer Elementary School in Minden. The Snodden family live in Snowdon Township near Kinmount.

The CHANGES group is a registered charity comprised of parents and professionals. The group is affiliated with the Down Syndrome Association of Ontario, and the Canadian Down Syndrome Society.

Disability funds available

The Ontario Ministry of Health runs the Assistive Devices Program (ADP) to help people who have long-term physical disabilities get needed equipment and supplies.

In some cases ADP pays up to 75 per cent of the cost of the items like artificial limbs, orthopedic braces and breathing aids.

In other cases, such as hearing aids for adults and breast prostheses, ADP contributes a fixed amount.

For some kinds of supplies, such as ostomy, and needles and syringes for insulin dependent seniors, ADP pays an annual grant directly to the person. Fact sheets on each category of equipment and applications are available at your nearest Information Centre.

In Haliburton the centre (457-2733) is located in the Drag River Municipal Building, Maple Ave., and is open Monday to Friday between 10 a.m. and 4 p.m.

In Minden, the office (286-4100) in the township office on Milne Street is open every Thursday between 10 a.m. and 4 p.m.

Ontario's jobless focus of Liberals

Provincial leader Lyn McLeod visits with John O'Reilly and the federal party

Provincial and federal Liberals gathered Thursday night in Lindsay to protest central Ontario's unemployment woes.

"Right now, one need stands above all others," said provincial Liberal leader Lyn McLeod, "we have to make this province work again."

Thursday's gathering was a prelude to federal Liberal candidate John O'Reilly's campaign for the coming election. The meeting opened with a welcome from former Liberal candidate Bruce Glass and announcements from O'Reilly's campaign manager Sandra Jack. O'Reilly then introduced the guest speaker, who is the leader of the provincial opposition.

"Unemployment in our area is as high as 35 per cent for some age groups," O'Reilly said. "Small and medium sized businesses are the key to our economy. We need people in Ottawa who recognize that."

McLeod and O'Reilly both cited the federal Tories' record as a key contributor to the unemployment plight. "Years of Tory management have alienated the people in this country from the governments," said McLeod.

"I don't think people will listen to politicians' promises of a better tomorrow any more," O'Reilly echoed. "The Tories have courted big business at our expense."

They also both agreed with federal Liberal leader Jean Chretien's recent criticisms of banks making it hard for small business people to get and keep the credit they need to operate.

"If most of our jobs are going to come from smaller companies, we have to ensure that a lack of financing doesn't choke them off in infancy," said McLeod.

The Liberal leader was in town meeting regional and local councillors as part of a 30-community tour of the province. O'Reilly supporters from all over the Victoria-Haliburton riding came out to the campaign headquarters on Kent Street to meet O'Reilly's team and shake hands with the person they hope will be Ontario's next Premier.

Winter sand tender up 20 % as winter looms for Dysart

The following brief items were discussed at Dysart et al council last Monday.

Sandy dollars

Dysart received just one tender to screen and store its winter sand for the upcoming year. Three local firms were asked to submit bids, but only Merrill Barry replied to the offer. Barry's bid of $1.20 a cubic yard was up from the flat $1 fee last year. Dysart is expecting to use 9,000 cubic yards of sand to keep the municipality's roads from becoming icy. Council was told that if it is a particularly nasty year weather-wise, the roads department might run out of sand before the end of the winter.

In the dumps

Glamorgan township will not be buying dump cards from Dysart to allow residents living on the borderline to use the larger municipality's dump sites. Instead Glamorgan will examine how many of its residents use the Lochlin dump site operated by Snowden and proceed from there. Dump cards in Dysart cost $25 each for those who live outside its borders. Those who are residents of the area get the cards for free.

Mutual support

Dysart council reaffirmed its support for the mutual aid program between the county's municipal emergency services by allowing Minden the use of its tanker whenever it is needed, as long as Dysart does not need it at the time. The request by Minden was made several weeks ago when the municipality had a water shortage. That problem has since been eliminated, but Dysart confirmed its mutual aid support anyway.

Tourist train

The tourist information booth in Dysart - the old caboose near the Rails' End Gallery - is reporting impressive numbers of visitors to the area in June and July. On July 3 during the long weekend 167 people stopped by the office to ask for help and to see what kinds of tourist facilities the area has to offer. On most days around 100 people are stopping by, with the weekends being the most popular time.

Cash strings attached to province's grant

by Andy Holloway

Getting a jobsOntario grant is easier than being able to spend it, Dysart councillors have discovered.

Two weeks ago the municipality received a grant of $46,200 to improve the Haliburton industrial park located on the western end of the village. However, to receive the full grant the township has to spend $92,324 of its own money - a task that will be difficult considering the budget concerns the councillors have.

A proposal by Gerry Walker would have had part of the road circling the industrial complex repaved using the jobsOntario funds. The expected cost would have been about $10,000 of which the municipality would pay around $6,000 and was considered too much by the other councillors.

Tax arrears are up over the same period last year and government grants have been cut which has councillors concerned about the bottom line in December.

"We'll have a hard time explaining it (paving the road) to the taxpayers when there are roads that can't be driven on now," said Brian Watts adding that unnecessary expenses like that have to be cut.

Lloyd Leadbeatler said while he would not like to pass on the grant money he too had concerns for the municipality meeting its 1993 budget.

If councillors had approved the plan the money would have come from its development fund.

Another proposal by Walker to erect street lights as a means of preventing break-ins was also put aside for now. It appears council will only use the grant for matters that demand immediate attention.

The grant money has to be spent by March 31, 1994. Any unused portion of the grant would have to be returned to the province.

Dover veteran's reunion planned for 50th anniversary

Any local resident who served in the Dover, England area during the war and is interested in relieving a few memories should contact Cec Rowe of Minden.

Veterans from all over the world are being brought to Dover to commemorate the 50th anniversary of the cessation of German shelling from Calais and two other areas in France. The occasion is titled Frontline Britain '94 and will include the unveiling of a memorial dedicated to all who served in East Kent District 'Hellfire Corner'.

A week of activities is being planned from starting September 26. During the week eligible veterans will be presented with Frontline Britain Medals. Veteran's who served in the East Kent District between 1939-1945 and meet certain criteria are eligible to receive the medal.

Rowe says the First Canadian Radio Location Unit (CRLU) was formed as a group of radar operators who used radio beams to detect aircraft as blips on a cathode ray tube. As Canadian equipment was not available the group was loaned out to British regiments in Dover and other locations along the coast.

In 1989 a group called White Cliff Veteran's was formed in Dover to bring together any personnel worldwide who served in the area during World War II. The group has a reunion every year, but 1994 is considered a special one.

Sixty CRLU members also belong to this association, says Rowe, and most are planning to attend next year. Special jackets and crests have been made and transportation and accommodation are being arranged.

For more information on the Frontline Britain Medal and the 50th anniversary trip contact Cec Rowe at Box 481, Minden, Ontario, K0M 2K0 or by phone 705-286-3702.

Man buys winning ticket in Minden

Scott Warner of Willowdale is now a fairly rich man thanks to a Lottario ticket he bought in Minden on August 11.

Warner, who was on vacation, purchased a winning Lottario ticket for the August 14 draw at Sunny's Variety store on Bobcaygeon Road.

His jackpot win was worth $363,775.90. Hopefully Warner will return to Minden to spend some of his newfound funds.

Flowers impress seniors

During the weekend I wasn't here, but a little bird told me the residents had a lovely afternoon of music by John Menzies on Saturday. Thank you very much Mr. Menzies. My son Terry took me to my sisters in Peterborough. Saturday May Cameron, Jackie Yateman and I went on a boat tour on Sturgeon Lake and they brought me home Sunday.

Reverend John Burgess conducted the evening chapel service and June Mason was the organist. Thank you John and June.

Following fitness on Monday morning we held Residents' Council. Phyllis Hiltz-Bontje explained residents' rights and to get the residents' opinion on having medications at the bedside. Linda Fry reported on the Residents' Council Constitution.

Tuesday Pastor Fast led the morning chapel service and is thanked very much by the Residents. The United Church luncheon was served in the auditorium for the residents who are members of the United Church, Minden. In the evening Corinne Arsenault and Amy Parker came to help us play a few games of euchre. Thank you Corinne and Amy.

Wednesday morning Dottie came to read the local paper to the residents who needed help to hear the news. Thanks Dottie. In the afternoon Doris took a bus load of the residents down Deep Bay Road to Moores Falls and then to Kawartha Dairy in Minden for an ice cream cone, and then home. We had a nice drive and thank Doris for driving the bus, as well as Dottie Muirhead and Pearl Cowen for caring for our needs. In the evening Kathleen Owens and Earle Cooper entertained us with piano, violin, mandolin and accordion music. Thanks Kathleen and Earle, we do appreciate your company.

Weeks do fly by, here it is Thursday tea party again, donated and served by Vickie's Swim Group - Evelyn Stata, Nancy Cook, Ernice Warder, Vicki Ross, June Stewart and Marion Gould. After the delicious lunch we had a lively sing song. Thank you ladies for a pleasant afternoon. In the evening Amy Parker called bingo for us. We had an enjoyable evening and thank Amy from our hearts.

Friday morning Doris Robertson took us by bus to the Minden Arena so we could see the colourful flowers and beautiful arrangement on display. They were exceptionally beautiful this year. A great deal of work went into preparing the show. After we saw the flowers and vegetables we were invited for a lovely cup of tea and cookies. We truly thank the horticultural club for inviting us. It was so different from our daily routine.

The entertainment for Happy Hour was provided by Leslie Schell and Sid Cooper singing and playing the old, old time songs we use to sing. The volunteers were Ellen Holden, Don Holden, Dottie Muirhead and Mary Guillemin. The residents sincerely thank Leslie and Sid and the volunteers.

Congratulations to Irene McKelvey who celebrated her birthday August 13. Also to Mary Busby who celebrated her 90th birthday the same day. Happy Birthday to both.

Staanworth Court residents enjoying summer weather

Residents of Staانworth Court have been enjoying the mostly summer weather. Our chefs, Len Trodd and Mark Vasey, often get rained on while doing the Wednesday night barbeque, but are given gold stars for the end results. Die-hard card players meet for Friday euchre while Blue Jay followers enjoy the game on television.

Residents joined the many friends of Mark and Carrie Vasey to celebrate their 60th wedding anniversary at the community centre. Members of their family welcomed the visitors and it was a joyous occasion for all.

Margaret Horsley has enjoyed a visit from daughter Glenda from "out west". Jean and Art Marsh have been away visiting relatives. Sylvia Howard has organized a very successful campaign for Canine Vision and winners were announced at the County Fair.

A very sad event for all of us was the death of Mel Foster. He was a very kind and conscientious resident and we all miss him and extend our sympathy to his wife Doris and their family.

NOTICE OF PASSING OF BY-LAW TOWNSHIPS OF ANSON, HINDON & MINDEN - ZONING BY-LAW #93-35

TAKE NOTICE that the Council of the Corporation of the Townships of Anson, Hindon and Minden passed By-law Number 93-35 on August 12, 1993 under Section 34 of the Planning Act as amended.

AND TAKE NOTICE that any person or agency may appeal to the Ontario Municipal Board in respect to the Ontario Municipal Board in respect to this By-law by filing with the Clerk of the Townships of Anson, Hindon and Minden not later than September 12, 1993, a notice of appeal setting out the objection to the By-law and the reasons in support of such objection.

An explanation of the purpose and effect of this By-law is found below.

PURPOSE OF THE BY-LAW

This By-law is a housekeeping By-law to amend certain sections of By-law 86-26 which are felt to be necessary.

EFFECT OF THE BY-LAW

When approved, the By-law will amend and clarify specific sections of the zoning By-law 86-26 including:

- accessory buildings
- sleeping cabins and marine facilities
- frontage on a street and waterfront lots
- cash in lieu of parking
- setbacks from the Gull River
- permitted uses in the Highway Commercial (C3) Zone and
- permitted uses in the Institutional (I) Zone

A copy of the By-law is available for review in the Municipal Offices during regular office hours.

Even when on vacation Suzuki connects the eco-dots

Each year in July, I flee the frantic fragmentation of my life to restore sanity and a semblance of family life. I do this far away from the tyrant demands of the telephone, TV and daily newspaper.

In days filled with canoeing, hiking, fishing, swimming and just loafing around, life has different rhythms and demands.

Here, I have time to reflect on things in a more comprehensive way. My main link to the outside world is the radio, but as I listen I am reminded again of the way media shatter perceptions into fragments that no longer seem connected in time and place.

Consider the 10-minute morning news package on CBC on July 7.

It was full of the usual fare of short, disconnected items from around the world. But taken together and thought of as a whole, they actually document the planet's life support systems being pulled apart.

These were some of the stories:

Our new prime minister, Kim Campbell, was in Japan for the G-7 meeting. All seven leaders of industrial nations were lame ducks, lacking popular support or facing crippling social crises. They spoke of the need to get their economies cranked up again, but none understood or articulated the tight relationship between global economies and the state of the planet because the environment wasn't on their economic or political agenda.

The Stuart River sockeye run, which was supposed to be in the last peak year of a four-year cycle, failed to materialize. If the fish don't come in, commercial fishers will suffer disastrous consequences and the tensions between natives and sport and commercial fishers will get worse. But in fighting over their share of the salmon that do return, all of the fishers are diverted from the real priority, protecting the health of the salmon runs above all else.

In spite of a public referendum rejecting expansion of the Stanley Park Zoo, the Vancouver Parks Board approved a $9 million first-stage plan to develop it. The excuse is that this is not an old-fashioned zoo. Now there will be an emphasis on local fauna, a facility to care for injured wildlife and a program to breed endangered species. What the dinosaurs on the parks board don't understand is that environmental sensitivity has changed people's attitudes toward captive wild animals. The real hazard to wildlife today, especially in a province like British Columbia, is habitat destruction. There are better ways to use the money than saving a few injured animals or breeding a few hundred offspring of a handful of endangered species.

On the third day of a blockade of the logging road into Clayoquot Sound on the west coast of Vancouver Island, a father and his two young boys were arrested. The boys had heard the protest and had decided to join it. The next day, Premier Mike Harcourt and Forest Minister Dan Miller decried the exploitation of children. Their patronizing assessment showed the politicians failed to understand that children have the greatest stake in what is going on today and are

by David Suzuki

demanding to be heard. When I talked to the two boys, they articulated clearly and profoundly their concern for the future and had deliberately decided to make a stand. Those boys are eco-heros and Harcourt and Miller are eco-dunces.

A report on the state of fish stocks on the Atlantic coast was finally released. As feared, it was devastating. Scientists have found that in spite of a year's ban on commercial fishing in Newfoundland, stocks of groundfish as well as northern cod are plummeting. The question is no longer when fishing may be reopened, but whether there will be a fishery, not just in Newfoundland but in all of the maritime provinces.

"Perhaps by the end of the decade the stocks will have recovered," said one official. It has been a shock to find fish stocks continuing to drop, but so would a finding that the stocks had rebounded. We simply have no idea what is happening. Scientists trot out the usual litany of possible causes of the decline - whale or seal predation, pollution, cold water, parasites, overfishing - but like medical doctors they find it difficult if not impossible to pin down the causes when there are several interacting factors.

The marine ecosystem is complex and our knowledge of it primitive, yet we are hammering away at it. Certain prey species, such as snowcrabs, are being fished to extinction, important components of the food chain like capelin are being taken in vast numbers, pollution and oil spills occur and immense draggers pull huge weights destructively across the ocean floor. The best we could do would be to stop the assault and hope that nature can restore some of the fish.

My island retreat is idyllic, but can not buffer me from the reality of the continuing degradation of the biosphere that is made hard to see because the media fragment and disconnect information.

Around the County Town

by Jeanne Sears (call 286-1538)

Bob Johnson of Halls Lake was fortunate enough to catch three fish last week. This is the first time he has ever caught so many fish in his lifetime. Bob is very proud of himself.

Stanhope Seniors Social Club Country Dance August 27. The Tradesmen (ex Al Blanchard) will provide the music. For tickets call 286-4951, 489-2310.

Audrey Trumbull was glad to have the cousins back from Toronto for the holiday at Hart Lodge. Terry, Bill and Delmer McKelvey, Shirley and Jim Stewart, Marie Harvey and baby boy Matthew, and Elizabeth, Steven and Ashley from Victoria Road. They had a picnic at my home and "IT RAINED". Everyone enjoyed themselves, however, and we hope to see you all again next summer if not on Labour Day Weekend.

St. Paul's weekly euchre game winners for August 16 included Ellie Langpohl with most lone hands, Joyce Hewitt and Roberta Walker. The draw went to Nancy Gayton. The games are held each week at 1:30 p.m. and everyone is welcome to attend.

Visiting with Jean Lacey last weekend were her daughter and son-in-law Jeanne and Mike Cruikshank from Shelburne and Jean's brother-in-law Bob White and a friend from Capreol.

Agnes Houghton visited her son Fred, Darlene and family in Smithville recently.

Received a note from Yvonne Guida so will share it with you: "Last week the world was saddened by the death of Hollywood actor Stewart Granger from cancer. He starred in over 60 films, the best were Scaramouche, King Solomon's Mines and Beau Brummel with Elizabeth Taylor. He also starred on the stage. He was a gentleman and did not frequent the night spots. He was a friend and will be sorely missed by millions. He can still be seen on video cassettes and T.V. though. Yvonne"

South Lake Trailer Park held a corn roast and gigantic bonfire last Saturday night and enjoyed the music of a live band called "Iron Bridge" from Lindsay. This young band seems to be going places and have recorded a new album. Everyone had a good time including boss Ken (we won't tell!).

The County Town Museum buildings were busy last Wednesday afternoon when the Hyland Crest bus arrived with residents coming to see the displays. They looked around for a while then enjoyed lemonade and cookies on a very hot August day.

Euchre game winners at the 636 Tuesday afternoon games on August 17 included Georgina Parkes, Marie Dennie and Ruth Rice. Lone hands went to Verna McDonald and these games are held every Tuesday afternoon with everyone welcome.

Sincere sympathy to the families and friends of the late Jack (J.O.) Jackson, John Shedden (Kinmount), and Gladys White. Sympathy also to Shirley Elcome and family on the death of her sister Lois Miller.

Club 35 euchre game winners for August 16 included Bev Miller, most lone hands, Marion Irwin, Jim Bradbury high lady and man and Elsie Hornsby, Jim Foster and Rhoda Woolner. There will be a pot luck supper at the club on Friday, August 27 at 6 p.m. All welcome. The next Wheels to Meals dinner at Club 35 will be held August 31 at 12 noon. For information call 489-3016.

Donations of empty, clean, 4 or 6 oz. pill bottles (child proof) for clinics in Haiti. They will be gratefully accepted and can be left at The Times office or at Rhodes Medical Centre. 1000 are desperately needed.

Branch 636 euchre winners for August 12 included Iris Taylor and Pat Scadden with most lone hands, Ellen Holden and Orval Francis with high scores and Carol Moffat, Willard Bridgman, Reta Bickett, Bill Menard and Vince McDonald. The August 18 winners were Kate Cline and Bruce Brier with most lone hands, Vi Hodgson and Milton Fletcher high scores and Helen Skelding, Jim Frewen, Ralph Schecter, Verna McDonald, B. Harpur and V. Dredge.

Gelert folks had their annual "Bee" to make the cemetery look nice and lots of people came up for the weekend specially to help with the event.

Bob and Audrey Vick, Dorothy McElwain and Ruby Francis all had their families visiting last weekend.

John Francis and Joel Cox have been in hospital, good wishes to them and we are pleased to report that Gladys Kellett-Wruth came home early last week.

Joyce Hewitt enjoyed visits from her cousin

Nell Finley from Lindsay and Mrs. Howlett from Toronto recently.

Special announcement this week is the Womens' Institute is having a Tweedsmuir Tea at the Library/Cultural Centre on September 11 from 2 to 4 p.m. This is a get-together so you may see the history of Minden in the making by perusing the five books which have been available at the Bowron Homestead all summer. The W.I branch has been in our village since 1907 and the books have been growing since 1958 and we welcome family histories with pictures as well. This is a great project and last year everything was put in plastic covers. If you miss them during the summer, you can see the books all winter at the Minden Library. Drop in for a cup of tea or coffee and say "hello" to the members on September 11, their Special Day.

Note the County Town Museum meeting is Wednesday, August 25 at the Bowron Homestead at 10 a.m.

CARDS OF THANKS

Letter of Appreciation.

The Minden Museum wishes to thank the Ministry of Culture, Tourism and Recreation and Dennis Drainville, M.P., for providing us with an Experience '93 Grant. This enabled us to open the Bowron Home and now the Kirk, 5 days per week to the end of August.

I wish to thank all my friends and relatives for attending my 21st birthday party and for all the lovely cards and gifts. I would especially like to thank my Mom and Dad for giving me the party and to June, Peter, Corey, Ron, Fred and Mike for all their help. Thanks again everyone for making my day so special.
Debbie McDonald.
